

Leadership Sequence

The Leadership Studies program is a multi-disciplinary program focusing on the nature of leadership and followership. It addresses the scientific, philosophical, and literary approaches to the relationship between leaders and followers in political, business, and other settings. The leadership sequence is sponsored by the Kravis Leadership Institute and coordinated by the Assistant Director for Leadership Programs of the Kravis Leadership Institute.

The Leadership Studies program and the leadership sequence are designed for students interested in pursuing a career involving the scholarly study and practice of leadership, who feel that an understanding of leadership would be helpful to them in another career, or who have a casual interest in the subject. Completion of the sequence will be noted on students' transcript.

Interested students should contact Kevin Arnold, Assistant Director for Leadership Programs, or Professor Murphy or Professor Riggio for information and advice about the program.

Sequence Requirements

The Leadership Sequence requires five courses, distributed among four categories of courses. Courses meeting the requirements are listed below.

- 1. Core Requirement of two courses; the courses in the Core reflect current scholarly approaches to the study of leadership in the disciplines in which leadership is a substantive area of study.
- 2. Ethics Requirement of one course; the courses meeting the Ethics requirement provide a philosophical and moral context in which to judge the nature of appropriate leadership
- 3. Breadth Requirement of one course; the courses listed under the Breadth requirement offer material on leadership that enhance a liberal arts perspective on the subject

- 4. Experiential Requirement of one course; the Experiential courses provide direct experience in positions of leadership and "hands-on" applications of leadership theories and techniques

Courses

CORE REQUIREMENT

Students must complete two courses, one from each discipline, and selected from:

• Government

- 50. Introduction to Public Administration
- 121. Organization and Management
- 122. Leadership in Management
- 160. Statesmanship and Leadership

• Psychology

- 37. Organizational Psychology
- 93. Political Psychology
- 140. Leadership Seminar
- 141. Leading Entrepreneurial Ventures

ETHICS REQUIREMENT:

Students must complete one course, from any of the disciplines.

• Economics

- 109. Ethics, Economics, and Public Policy
- 153. Corporate Governance Systems (accounting)
- 190. Ethics and Management

• Government

- 128. Ethics and American Democracy
- 129. Ethics and American Political Leadership

• Philosophy

- 92. Contemporary Moral Issues
- 93. Introduction to Philosophy and Public Affairs
- 105. The Holocaust
- 125. Classical Ethical Theory: Aristotle
- 158. Ethical Theory

• Religious Studies

- 41. Morality and Religion
- 146. The Holocaust
- 174. Religion and the American Presidency

BREADTH REQUIREMENT

Students must complete one course from the courses listed below:

- Economics

- 108. Foundations of Political Economy
- 118. Processes of Environmental Policy Making
- 157. Design of Adaptive Management Systems (accounting)

- Government

- 105. Organization of Health Care and Public Policy
- 113. Inequality, Politics and Public Policy: Class, Race, and Gender
- 118. Processes of Environmental Policy Making
- 124. Cases in American Political Leadership
- 131. Heroes, Villains, and Clowns
- 136. Propaganda and Politics
- 141e. Comparative Elites
- 144. Political and Social Movements
- 148. Leadership in Politics and Diplomacy
- 196. Presidential War Powers (Seminar)

- History

- 101. Mao's China
- 174. U.S. and Comparative Military Systems
- 175. Women and Politics in America (seminar)

- Interdisciplinary

- 141. Leadership and the Sciences

- Literature

- 157. Ethics of Scientific Leadership: Literary Perspectives
- 161. Leadership and Diversity in Literature
- 163. Leadership in Literature and Film (with Practicum)
- 166. Feminist Theory

- Military Science and Leadership

- 130. U.S. and Comparative Military Systems

- Psychology

- 177. Organizational Communication and Leadership

- Religious Studies

- 132. Messiahs and the Millennium
- 135. Jerusalem, the Holy City

EXPERIENTIAL REQUIREMENT

Students must complete one of the courses listed below; some courses are year-long courses.

- Government

- 30. Internship in Politics (Washington, D.C. program)

- Interdisciplinary

- 99. Civic Leadership, Responsibility, and Involvement

- Military Science and Leadership

(total of one full credit course)

- 103a,b. Intermediate Leadership and Management I (two semesters)

- 104a,b. Advanced Leadership and Management I (two semesters)

- Psychology

- 103a,b. Mentoring (two semesters)

- 186. Seminar in Organizational Development

- 187. Practicum in Organizational Intervention

- 199. Kravis Leadership Institute Summer Internship (summer)

