ANALYTICAL ESSAY TOPIC—REQUIRED

In addition to the Personal Statement you are asked to write for the Common Application, you are also required to write an analytical essay responding to the following prompt. You may submit this essay with this supplement or with the Common Application. Your CMC application will not be considered complete without this essay.

Please enter your analytical essay on the essay page provided. There is no minimum or maximum length requirement, but the Admission Committee expects a thoughtful and analytical response to the following:

Leadership is a constant theme and emphasis at CMC. In fact, one of the ways we describe CMC students is “Leaders in the Making.” Identify and discuss a person, fictional or nonfictional, who has helped shape culture and thought. You may select someone from any field: literature, the arts, science, politics, history, athletics, business, education, etc.

FILL-IN-THE-BLANK QUESTIONS

Claremont McKenna College is as student-centered as any college can be. Students are involved in every aspect of college life: the application process is no exception. The Admission Committee wants to know about a lot more than just grades and test scores, so we have enlisted our students to help us gain that insider’s perspective on you. The following fill-in-the-blank questions were all inspired by current CMC students. Be creative. Think hard. Answer honestly. And remember, go with your gut—the first thing that comes to mind is always best!

1) If everyone in the world could just agree on _____, we’d all be a lot better off.
submitted by Patrick Weisman, Cincinnati, OH

2) If I could take anyone in the world to lunch, it would be _____.
submitted by Kristen Follmer, Renton, WA

3) _____ is the key to success.
submitted by Aleks Lyng, La Cañada, CA

4) The one super power I wish I had was _____.
submitted by Nicole Holzberg, Atlanta, GA

5) If I wanted the CMC Admission Office to know what I’m really like, I would send them _____ along with my application (but I won’t!).
submitted by Josh Siegel, New York, NY
